

Izza Leghtas

Izza Leghtas is a senior advocate at Refugees International, where she focuses on the rights of refugees and migrants in Europe and the Mediterranean region. Leghtas has authored reports on refugees' access to work in Jordan, Turkey and, most recently, Curacao. Previously, Leghtas worked as a researcher at Human Rights Watch and at Amnesty International. She holds a law degree from the University of Montpellier, France, a master's in European litigation from the University of Luxembourg, and an LLM from the College of Europe in Bruges.